Trouble on the Road; Hospitality Lends a Hand

Editor The Star: It was my misfortune last week to have a car breakdown on your new expressway (I-30) several miles east of Hope. But immediately on getting out of the car to see what all the steam was indicating, a passerby stopped and helped me in the most generous manner, and from then on it was almost a pleasure.

Dr. F. C. Crow from Hope was the kind gentleman, and he took me east to a turnaround, then back to Hope, where he put me in the hands of Mr. Schooley of James Motors, and Mr. Ford Ward who went out immediately to tow the car in to the Pontiac agency.

The problems were diagnosed, the parts brought out of stock or scrounged, - then they drove us to a fine buffet where we spent a pleasant hour eating good Arkansas food and reading The Star, and meeting several pleasant people from your lively little city... and we were on our way with a repaired vehicle, thanks to the real skill of your local mechanics.

It sounds strange, but it was a pleasant experience - thanks to the tremendous help of Dr. Crow, and the interest and friendliness of the other people we met. Sincerely,

JOHN F. JOHNSON,
D.D.S.

Trouble on the road far from home is an adventure that always makes good reading—that is, if it's about someone else, not you.

The happy ending for this Michigan man's story is a fortunate illustration of how Southwestern courtesy helped an unlucky traveler. But I must say it is a fairly common trait over the nation—if your trouble occurs in daytime; night emergencies are a different matter, there having been so many cases of hijacking the average traveler is afraid to stop.

In all my years of cross-country driving fortune deserted me just once. On one of my trips to Sarasota, Fla., accompanied by Tom Purvis of Hope, to visit my sisters, I was towing my boat. I had taken the usual precautions of checking the car beforehand, nevertheless the automatic transmission took out at Jackson, Miss. It worked in high gear but wouldn't reverse—a bad omen when facing the 190-mile jump through almost uninhabited forest (after you leave Hattiesburg) to Mobile. A failure in any gear usually means the whole works is about to quit.

So I turned in at one of the national automatic transmission stations and prepared to do business with utter strangers. To my surprise, the agency owner proved to be a close friend of Clarence Chapman, Jr., of Jackson, the man who sold me The Star's big press. And shortly Mr. Chapman put in an appearance.

Still our troubles weren't over. The transmission exchange was going to take a couple of days. So the Jackson folks steered me to an auto rental agency whose card I carry. When I mentioned I was towing a boat the manager said, "No dice. The rental contract forbids towing." But I was persistent. Finally he said, "This is off the record. You get the car; officially I don't know anything about the boat—but I'll tell you where you can rent an attachable trailer hitch."

So on to Sarasota Tom and I went with the boat. When I surrendered the rent car at Sarasota airport before flying back to Jackson to pick up my own machine the rental manager wrinkled his nose after totaling my gasoline tickets. But I knew the score. I towed a boat, I told him. "Deduct enough gas tickets to correspond with the average

Air attacks stepped up in Vietnam

By GEORGE ESPEY

SAGON (AP) — U.S. bombers blasted the Hanoi and Haiphong areas of North Vietnam with more than 1,400 strikes in the past week and devastated scores of military targets, the U.S. Command reported today.

The Command, breaking its silence on the heaviest air attack of the Vietnam war, reported in a special communique that more than a dozen different types of targets were attacked, including some for the first time in the war.

The report covered the period from Dec. 18 until late Dec. 24, when the bombing over the North was halted for a 36-hour Christmas cease-fire. It was resumed Tuesday afternoon.

The Command also announced the loss of two more planes in the Hanoi-Haiphong blitz, including the 12th B52 bomber it has admitted losing in the attack.

The U.S. communique said: "Targets struck included rail yards, shipyards, command and control facilities, warehouse and trans-shipment points, communications facilities, vehicle repair facilities, power plants, railway bridges, railroad rolling stock, truck parks, MIG bases, air defense radars, and surface-to-air missile and antiaircraft artillery sites."

North Vietnam charged that the American bombers have also devastated scores of populated areas, wiped out entire villages, killed or wounded thousands of civilians and destroyed hospitals, churches and schools.

The U.S. Command said Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps fighter-bombers made more than 1,000 strikes against the Hanoi and Haiphong industrial complex during the seven-day period, and B52 heavy bombers made more than 400 strikes.

The 400 B52 strikes dropped more than 10,000 tons of bombs, the Command said, or the equivalent of 2,000 fighter-bomber strikes.

The Command has announced a total of 20 U.S. planes lost—with 75 Americans missing, killed or captured—in the air offensive.

The U.S. Command said the North Vietnamese fired more than 600 surface-to-air missiles during the strikes, the most intense fire American pilots have ever encountered in Indochina.

The command reported one MIG21 downed by an Air Force F4 fighter-bomb near Hanoi but did not say how many other MIGs attacked the American raiders.

Truman lies in state in library

Day of mourning is Thursday

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — For the final time, Harry S. Truman today travels the half-mile from his home to the presidential library that bears his name.

When his coffin arrives, in quiet pomp reserved for statesmen, a military band will play "Ruffles and Flourishes" and "Hail to the Chief" for him for the last time. It was a greeting he heard often in the years 1945 to 1953 when he was President of the United States.

The nation he led from war into the chill of an uneasy peace will have a day of mourning Thursday, the day of the funeral, to commemorate the man whose dearest wish was to be known as "The People's President."

In keeping with Truman's and Mrs. Truman's wishes, the ceremony transferring the body from the funeral home to the library where he will be buried was to be simple. Mrs. Truman, 87, would not participate today, a family spokesman said.

The widow was at home today with her daughter, Margaret, son-in-law Clifton Daniel and their four sons.

Richard M. Nixon, 37th president of the United States and Lyndon B. Johnson, the 36th, were to be at the library today to bid farewell to the 33rd president.

The family spokesman said they would visit Mrs. Truman at home. The President planned to leave Independence immediately afterward, but Johnson may remain for the funeral Thursday.

The family still has not announced the guests invited for the funeral nor the pallbearers, but apparently they will be mostly intimates of the Truman's.

A memorial service is scheduled in Washington's National Cathedral at 11 a.m. Jan. 5 after Congress begins its new session.

Truman's sister, Mary Jane Truman, will not be able to attend his funeral because she is recovering in Research Hospital from a broken hip. She will watch the activities on television.

Mrs. Truman had asked that original plans for up to five days of ceremony be shortened.

"We felt unjustified to add to her strain," the family spokesman said. "We wanted to avoid as much strain on her as possible."

He noted that Mrs. Truman had spent 16 hours at the former president's bedside Christmas Day, the day before he died.

Mostly, the honor of paying last respects is reserved for close family and friends and the ordinary people with whom Truman was strongly identified in his 88 years.

A new look

Exterior renovation of the 1841 Courthouse (the Confederate State Capitol) at Old Washington, has been completed, according to William E. Henderson, state director of parks and tourism. Included in the project were the replacement of all exterior shutters, two exterior doors, and the repair of several rotted door sills and the bases of the front porch columns.

Three coats of white paint have been applied to the exterior, and the doors and shutters have been painted a bottle green. Cost of the project was $5,000. The Confederate State Capitol is under the jurisdiction of the Arkansas Commemorative Commission, an agency of the Department of Parks and Tourism.

Managua: Nicaraguan nightmare

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Looters prowled through the rubble left by the earthquake that devastated Managua, vultures pecked at decomposing bodies and fires burned today in many parts of the shattered Nicaraguan capital.

Gen. Anastasio Somoza, the country's strong man, blamed a rash of fires that broke out late Tuesday afternoon on businessmen "trying to get insurance money for their buildings."

"A lot of businessmen had insurance against fire damage but no insurance against earthquake damage," Somoza said.

Others blamed the fires on looters hoping to hide their activities from national guard patrols. And some of the fires were started by demolition teams dynamiting shaky structures.

The troops had orders to shoot looters on sight, but only occasional casualties were reported in the confrontations between the troops and those who refused to heed the order for general evacuation of the city.

There also were clashes between groups of survivors combing the ruins for food as well as loot.

"We turn into animals when we get so hungry," said one man as he ran from a pillaged supermarket. "We'll do almost anything to get something to eat."

The latest official estimate of casualties in the quake Saturday was 3,000 to 4,000 dead and up to 20,000 injured.

Rescue workers continued to burn unidentified and unclaimed bodies pulled from under piles of debris. Bodies that weren't burned were buried in common graves.

Vultures circled overhead and often got to the bodies before the burial squads. A stench blanketed the ruins as the hot sun hastened decomposition.

Aid poured in from abroad as many of the survivors began to settle down in villages surrounding the capital. But a number of those who had left the city defied the national guard and returned to try to salvage belongings from what remained of their dwellings.

Roads in and out of the city were jammed. Trucks and cars arrived empty and left with loads of goods pulled from the rubble.

Col. Frank Simons, in charge of the U.S. relief program, said there was a big shortage of trucks to deliver supplies to emergency food and medical stations.

Native named superintendent

Joe Barentine, seated, has been named new superintendent of Hope Schools, effective July 1. Congratulating Barentine is Bill Tolleson, chairman of the Hope School Board. Barentine, a native of Hope, will fill the vacancy left by the announced retirement of James Jones, superintendent of Hope schools for 27 years. Barentine is a former principal of Hope High School and is superintendent at Ashdown. He and his wife Jackie, the former Jackie Allen, have three children, Jo Beth, 18, Joe, 17, and Judy, 12. Barentine is working on his doctorate at East Texas State University, Commerce. Barentine told the Star he was "exceptionally pleased to be coming home." Tolleson also expressed pleasure at the board's choice.

19 die in bus-truck crash, 16 injured

FORT SUMNER, N.M. (AP) — A truck loaded with cattle jackknifed on a narrow bridge near here and slammed into a chartered bus carrying a church youth group bound for a holiday ski outing and religious retreat. Authorities said 19 were killed, 16 injured.

The young people were from the Woodlawn Baptist Church in Austin, Tex.

The bus wrecked Tuesday night was the second of two school buses carrying the youth group.

The driver of the first bus said that after passing the truck he looked in the rear view mirror and saw the lights of the second bus flash and go out on the bridge.

"I stopped the bus and our leader, Ron Killough, ran back to see what happened," Roberts said. "I already knew. I stood up in the bus and made an announcement to the kids. I told them, 'You're going to see something you've probably never seen before in your life. If you can't stand to see your brothers and sisters mangled and possibly killed, uh't get off the bus. Just pray.'"

An ambulance driver said the scene "looked like a disaster area. There were a lot of people down there trying to separate the living from the dead. The windows were all broken out of the bus. Fuel was all over the road."

Frank Stanley, a radio newsman from Clovis, said seats in the bus were torn from their moorings by the impact and the frame of the bus tore loose from the body.

Stanley said: "The bodies were stacked off to the side of the road and covered with blankets or coats. Items normally taken on outings were strewn about—things like backpacks and sleds."

Some of the injured weren't removed from the twisted and fused wreckage of the bus for as long as two hours after the accident. Neither vehicle burned. Traffic was blocked for about six hours.

The accident occurred as two buses carrying a total of about 67 persons crossed the bridge on U.S. 60-84 about 12 miles east of this small eastern New Mexico town. The span is only 25 feet long.

State police said the first bus passed the eastbound cattle truck without incident. The truck then apparently struck the bridge railing and the trailer swung into the path of the second bus.

Trade deficit takes a sharp 'down' turn

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's trade deficit took a sharp turn for the worse in November, mainly because of record-high imports, the Commerce Department said today.

The department said the deficit reached $669.2 million last month. This brought the deficit for the first 11 months of 1972 to a seasonally adjusted $5.8 billion, easily making it the worst year in international commerce in history for the United States.

The report cast doubt on Nixon administration claims that the trade deficit had turned around and was showing real signs of improvement.

The department said that imports climbed to $5.027 billion, topping the previous record by $248 million set in October. Exports were valued at $4.468 billion.

A trade deficit occurs when the value of imports from foreign countries exceeds exports. The result is a reflection on U.S. competitiveness with other countries as well as new pressures on the dollar overseas.

While the international situation worsened, the economic news domestically was better. The department also reported that its index of leading economic indicators rose 1.9 per cent in November, with six of the eight indicators available improving.

Nicaraguan jolt was neither a surprise nor extra severe

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The earthquake that ripped Managua, the capital of Nicaragua, was a catastrophic disaster in human terms, but to scientists the jolt was neither unexpected nor unusually severe.

The fact that it wrecked the city and killed thousands resulted not from extraordinary force but from three factors:

- It was centered very close to, or within, the city.
- The quake originated close to the surface of the city's loose, ashly land base.
- Few of Managua's buildings apparently were designed or built to withstand such tremors.

Seismographs at various California points indicated Saturday's jolt had an intensity of 6.25 to 6.4 on the Richter Scale. This was somewhat less intense than the 6.6 quake in February 1971 that rocked the San Fernando Valley north of Los Angeles and killed 65 persons.

Dr. Don Anderson, director of the seismology laboratory at the California Institute of Technology, said Tuesday a quake is not classified by scientists as "major" unless it reaches 7.5 on the Richter Scale.

The great San Francisco quake of 1906 was estimated at 8.25.

Independence: Mourning the passing of a son

By TAD BARTIMUS
Associated Press Writer
INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Like Americans on every Main Street, U.S.A., they mourn the death of the nation's 33rd President. But in this prairie town, the passing of Harry S. Truman brings a special sorrow—he was their own.

"We felt so comfortable, all of us here in Independence, knowing he was down the street in his big white house," said Mary Dowell, 57. "If you drove real slow down past his house on Truman Road, you could look in the north window at night and see him sitting there all alone, reading by the little lamp that was always lit in the study window."

"It gave you a feeling of security—you felt that no matter how much the world changed and seemed to get away from you as you grew older, that was one thing in your life that would stay the same," she said.

"Seeing him sitting there, every night, gave you a link to the past and a way of life that is disappearing from our country."

Tuesday night the study window was dark. The former president's death had come at 7:50 a.m. that morning.

As the December sun faded away leaving only a soft lavender glow and a bitter chill, small clusters of people huddled on corners across the street from Truman's home.

All were bundled in heavy coats and scarves. Many bent down to children to point to the place where history happened. A few ventured brief words with Secret Service agents and police who converged early in the day to keep a vigil over the privacy of the widow Beas and daughter Margaret.

But all spoke not only of Truman's death, but of the life of the man from Independence who went off to Washington and came back home immortal.

"There never is and never can be anything like coming back home," Truman had said when he returned to Independence in 1953 after he left the White House.

"Harry was true people, he was one of us," said William Stallcup, a 64-year-old boiler stoker who credited Truman with getting him a job during the Depression that kept food on his table.

"Harry came up the hard way, just like most of us Missourians have done," said Lloyd R. Hilburn, 74, a retired Jackson County sheriff's deputy who also credits the former president with helping him get his job back in the 1930s.

"There'll never be another one like Ole Harry," said Hilburn. "His momma used to say he could plow as straight a row of corn as anybody. He lived his life that way, too. He walked straight, talked from the heart, and never forgot the place where he came from."

Four doors down the street, Lester Osthoff sat at the soda fountain where Truman often stopped to visit old friends. Now retired from the department store where Mrs. Truman used to order her clothes, even when she was mistress of 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, Osthoff remembered too.

"I hurt inside, knowing he's gone," Osthoff said. "America should hurt inside, too. He was a great man, a simple man who loved us all as neighbors and friends. He was our own."

Truman's wife, daughter took news of his death with great style, grace

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — The widow and daughter of former President Harry S. Truman took the news of his death "with the great style and grace they have always exhibited," a family friend says.

Randall Jessee, public affairs director of the Kansas City regional office of the Environmental Protection Agency, said Bess Truman was notified by telephone and took it "with the same fortitude and calmness with which she has faced all of this."

Margaret Truman Daniel, the couple's only child, also was at the home when the news came, having returned from her home in New York to her father's bedside on Christmas Day.

"They both have taken this with the great style and grace they have always exhibited," said Jessee, who had been a family spokesman throughout the 88-year-old former chief executive's illness.

He added that Mrs. Truman's "loyalty and devotion were fabulous. The vigil was a very trying thing for her physically." Truman was hospitalized three weeks before death came.

The 87-year-old Mrs. Truman, called "The Boss" by her husband, spent most of the day at the family home, her birthplace. Despite grief, she answered the phone, Jessee said, noting, "She had great composure and she is a great lady."

Her aversion to news conferences and interviews remains although photographers were able to snap her picture, along with her daughter, during a brief stroll.

During the final illness, Mrs. Daniel met with newsmen at Research Hospital and Medical Center. Her comments and answers were welcomed by newsmen subsisting on a diet of brief announcements in terse medical terminology.

Jessee could recall only once that Mrs. Truman seemed anxious to make a public statement and that was in 1953 when the Trumans returned to Independence after their White House years.

Jessee, then a Kansas City broadcaster, said he extended a microphone toward the former First Lady and asked how it felt to return to her hometown for good.

"I've been waiting 19 years for this," she replied.

Documents damaged by blaze

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Christmas Day fire in a small file room of the U.S. District Courthouse here damaged documents connected with the trial of former United Mine Workers President W.A. "Tony" Boyle, court officials say.

The clerk of the court, James F. Davey, said the files damaged included exhibits from Boyle's trial. Boyle was convicted last March of making legal political campaign contributions.

The cause of the fire has not been determined and District Fire Inspector Frank Ruth said the fire was "definitely of a suspicious origin."

Ruth estimated the damage at $500 to the building.

N. Viets refuse a meeting

PARIS (AP) — The North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks said today it would not send representatives to a meeting with American experts until the bombing of North Vietnam stops.

The meeting was proposed for today by the American side in the talks when the North Vietnamese walked out of a previous session last Saturday.

The North Vietnamese statement said its delegation's refusal to meet was communicated to the U.S. side this morning.

The meetings resulted from the secret peace talks between Henry A. Kissinger and North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho.

The experts are supposed to discuss details of the proposed peace agreement in Vietnam.

The meetings, the statement said, can be resumed if the United States limits bombing to below the 20th parallel as it had before Dec. 18.

Thursday's session of the four-sided, semipublic Paris peace talks will not be held. The United States and South Vietnam did not accept the Dec. 28 date proposed by the North Vietnamese. The North Vietnamese have not responded to the suggestion by the United States that the next meeting be held Jan. 4.

Women demanding equal rights to credit cards

By LYNNE OLSON
Associated Press Writer
Women who claim they've been denied credit because of their sex are becoming increasingly militant in demanding equal rights to credit cards and loans.

In response, a number of major stores, credit card companies and banks say they are changing or clarifying their credit policies, and some creditors are actively pursuing the business of women.

"A year ago, women just accepted discrimination without question," said Carole De Saram of the National Organization of Women.

"Now they're no longer taking it. They're asking, 'What do you mean I can't have a loan or credit?' Hundreds of women—and even some husbands—are up in arms."

"There's been an enormous increase in the number of women demanding equal access to credit," said Barbara Shack, assistant director of the New York Civil Liberties Union. "Women are much more militant, and it's having an effect on retailers and lenders."

Ruth Holstein, executive director of the National Commission on Consumer Finance, said the increased protests stem from widespread national publicity about the commission's hearings last spring on the subject of women and credit.

Witnesses, including several congresswomen and Women's Bureau Director Elizabeth Koons, told of single women with good incomes who suddenly had their credit accounts closed when they married. They were told they had to reapply in their husbands' name, in the process losing their own credit ratings.

There were instances of widows and divorcees whose credit accounts were canceled when their marriages ended because the credit belonged to the husband.

Also described were working wives whose earnings were not counted toward eligibility for mortgage loans and single, divorced and widowed women with substantial incomes who had to have male co-signers before getting loans.

Several women's rights organizations, including NOW, the Women's Equity Action League (WEAL) and the Women's Lobby, say they're planning stepped-up fights against sex discrimination in credit.

NOW will mount an "organized and concerted" national campaign in 1973, which may include demonstrations and boycotts, said Lynne Litwiler, head of NOW's task force on taxes, credit and finance.

Miss De Saram says she's received more than 100 requests from individuals and organizations throughout the nation for advice on how to organize groups to protest discrimination and work for equality in credit.

One of the requests came from the Atlanta YWCA, which plans an extensive investigation of credit practices in Atlanta and eventually a permanent task force on credit.

The Dallas chapter of WEAL just completed an investigation of Dallas creditors and will urge stores and banks to make credit policy changes as a result.

Most creditors insist they do not deliberately discriminate and their only criterion for extending credit is the ability of the applicant to pay.

Retailers say it's more convenient and less costly for them to have a married woman's account in her husband's name. Lenders say they're wary of counting a wife's income for loans because she may quit her job, in many cases to have a baby.

There are signs that the protests are having some effect.

A subcommittee on credit for the National Business Council for Consumer Affairs acknowledged last month in its report:

"Discrimination against women in credit granting systems can be subtle, but serious, as shown in recent hearings on the subject by the National Commission on Consumer Finance."

MRS. GEORGE E. RUNSHAUG, JR.

Couple exchange vows

Miss Gayle Williams, daughter of Mrs. Donald E. Williams and the late Mr. Williams, was wed to George Edward Runshaug, Jr. at 7 p.m. Saturday in the First Baptist Church. The bride-groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Runshaug of Little Rock.

The Rev. George B. Trussel solemnized the wedding vows. Luther Hollomon, organist and Dr. Lowell Harris soloist, provided traditional wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Donald Williams, chose a gown of antique white satin styled with an empire bodice trimmed with alencon lace and seed pearls and featured bishop sleeves. Her full length mantilla was bordered with matching alencon lace and pearls. Her bridal bouquet was an orchid encircled with baby's breath, stephanotis and white roses.

Mrs. Richard Warrington of Joiner served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Mack Curau of Tempe, Ariz., sister of the groom; Mrs. Larry B. Cloninger of Jacksonville, Tex., and Mrs. Son Campbell of Little Rock.

George Runshaug served his son as best man. Groomsman and ushers were James E. Darr, Jr., James McClelland, Jr. and George Weber, all of Little Rock, James W. Davis of Arkadelphia. Jay McClelland served as ringbearer.

After a trip to New Orleans the couple will make their home in Little Rock where Mrs. Runshaug is associated with Rector-Phillips, Morse, Inc.

Helen help us!

by Helen Bottel

L'I OI Matchmaking Ma
DEAR HELEN:
I don't want to be a nosy mother, but my son needs a push.

He is a 25-year-old guy I've never met. However, friends tell me she is a good, church-going, moral, well brought-up girl. She's pretty too, as he has a picture of her in his room. From what I hear they're so much alike in habits and ideals that it's uncanny.

But—my son was deeply hurt three years ago and I think he is afraid of getting serious, though he has dated this girl for about six months. He hasn't brought her home to meet us, so he probably hasn't told her how he feels, and she may figure it's "just friends." He says from him. Girls like her are few and far between—and my son isn't getting any younger.

I think he would like to say, "Let's get married," and do just that in a couple of weeks. Financially, he's able, but a girl wants a big wedding, and he should give her notice. I can't understand why he doesn't bring her home and get everything settled.

Like I say, I'm not a nosy mother, but shouldn't I have a talk with him? —MRS. C.M.

DEAR MRS. M:
Back up to "I'm not a nosy mother," add a big, fat exclamation point, and cut the "buts."

A 25-year-old son needs a mother's "push" toward matrimony like he needed her taking him to the barbershop at age 14. —H.

DEAR HELEN:
I like mimeographed family letters for Christmas cards, provided they're interesting and fun to read. But when they're received during the holiday rush, they're seldom appreciated.

Therefore, we send our Christmas letters out after New Year's. It works great! By then we have heard from all our friends, so we can tack on really personal answers at the bottom. Also, we have all the new addresses. Colored paper, with matching ink, incidentally, lives up any correspondence.

As for gifts: we do our gift giving throughout the year — and that goes for birthdays, too. Whenever we find something just right for a friend or relative, we buy it and send it quickly, with a note saying this is "Your special gift and we couldn't wait for the special day." How much nicer it is to get a surprise present when it can be savored all by itself. Christmas we reserve for the children — and for pleasant, relaxed family gatherings, unburdened with thoughts of those mountainous bills for adult gifts.

Thanks for letting me share my Christmas ideas with you. —ALICE M.

DEAR HELEN:
Here's an idea for low-budget gifts that really mean something. Our daughter lost her part-time job this fall. She loves to give, but said it wouldn't be right if her parents paid her bills (though she's only 16). So she made up fancy little I.O.U. notes, decorated with humorous drawings, and placed them in envelopes on the tree. Her married sister and brother and their spouses each received TEN HOURS OF BABY-SITTING, but not during finals week. The older children got "ONE TRIP TO THE BEACH, BIG PICNIC, Payable July 14." She made the younger ones stuffed animals and dolls. And for us, her parents, she had the greatest gift of all: 25 DAYS OF LOVE AND APPRECIATION for two super-Good Guys, plus two car-wash-and-wax jobs, and one day scrubbing down the kitchen cupboards. —NICE, HUH?

DEAR NICE:
The nicest! You've got a great daughter there. —H.

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY

ARIES (Mar 21-Apr 19)
Curb your impulses to make grandiose gestures to impress others. You could "give away the store."

TAURUS (Apr 20-May 20)
Today you may try to tackle more work than you can handle. There may be many false starts.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
A close associate's unusual request could have you rush to his side without thinking of consequences. Look ahead.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Although they may seem like good moves presently, deals you're considering could have legal complications.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22)
You could be very wasteful today with time, materials, in your work. No shortcuts, please.

VIRGO (Aug 23-Sept 22)
Don't rock the boat financially. The bubble could burst if you get too speculative.

LIBRA (Sept 23-Oct 23)
This is not a good day to tell tall tales. They'll only make you look small.

SCORPIO (Oct 24-Nov 22)
Keep opinions to yourself today. Others may be suspicious of your reasons for airing them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23-Dec 21)
A sudden change in your plans made without consulting others involved could cost friends and funds.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 19)
Opportunity may slip away if you serve only your self-interests. Look out for the other guy, too.

AQUARIUS (Jan 20-Feb 19)
You're likely to offer far too much for assistance needed at this time. Cut smaller pieces.

PISCES (Feb 20-Mar 20)
Your generous nature could be put-upon by others. Analyze the need. See if it justifies your aid.

The double elimination tournament is sponsored by the Hempstead County Independent Basketball League and the Hope Parks and Recreation Department.

Browns rehire coach

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Browns have rehired head coach Nick Skorich with a three-year contract extending through the 1975 football season.

"I expect the entire staff to be back, and we can concentrate on getting the job done," Skorich said Tuesday. "Having a contract of this length is helpful in dealing with players."

"I'm very happy with both the financial arrangements and the length of the contract," Skorich, an assistant Browns coach since 1964, was named head coach in 1971 after Blanton Collier retired.

Crimson Tide sharpening up

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Alabama Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant says his Alabama football team will spend the remainder of the week trying to sharpen up and getting its timing down.

Alabama meets Texas in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 1 in Dallas, Tex.

"We went into the gym and walked through our stuff, then went outside for a couple of hours," Bryant said. "I think after a day or so, we'll get our timing and concentration back. We'll do the about the same thing Wednesday and we may scrimmage."

Wolverines lead Holiday Festival tournament

By KEN RAPPOPORT Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — The Michigan Wolverines are in a field of 10 Holiday Festival basketball teams, but seemingly in a class all by themselves.

Their starting team is as good as any starting unit in the country," says Boston College Coach Bob Zuffelato. "It's going to take a great effort to beat them in this tourney."

The Wolverines displayed some of that strength and practically ran Boston College out of Madison Square Garden with an 88-70 victory Tuesday night.

With their success in Tuesday night's quarterfinals, the Big Ten club raced into the semifinals of this 21st annual event. They'll play Thursday night against the winner of today's St. John's-Tennessee game.

South Carolina, another of the leading teams in the Holiday Festival, also earned a semifinal berth with a 80-64 triumph over Villanova Tuesday night. The Gamecocks will be matched in Thursday night's other semifinal game against the winner of today's contest between Niagara and Manhattan.

For Perry's Truck Stop, John Williamson, 29, scores two of his 29 points over a taller Central of Texarkana player in first-round action Tuesday night of the Independent Basketball Tournament underway at Guernsey. Perry's downed Central, 107-85. (See article at left.)

Blazers dump Saints 6-2 in turnabout

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Phil Watson, the Philadelphia coach who blamed the holiday spirit on a couple of weekend disasters, let his Blazers do some real celebrating the night after Christmas.

Following losses of 7-3 to Houston last Saturday and 8-0 to Cleveland on Sunday, the Blazers, last in the World Hockey Association's East Division, did a turnabout Tuesday night and dumped the West Division's second-place Minnesota Fighting Saints 6-2.

In other WHA action, the New York Raiders beat Quebec 5-2, the Winnipeg Jets nipped Chicago 3-2 and Houston and Ottawa skated to a 3-3 tie.

In the National Hockey League, Montreal swept past St. Louis 4-1, Vancouver nosed out California 4-3 and Pittsburgh and Detroit tied 1-1.

"We have a lot of young players and I can't blame them for going overboard," Watson said of the Blazers' pre-Christmas celebration just before they took to the road for what would be demolitions by the Aeros and Crusaders. "The two losses were the result of that party."

Danny Lawson, with three goals, and Andre Lacroix, with a goal and three assists, did the "going overboard" for Philly against the Fighting Saints, who fell six points back of front-running Winnipeg. The Blazers trail fifth-place Ottawa by seven points.

The Raiders edged within a point of second-place Cleveland in the East as Norm Ferguson scored twice.

All-Stars

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — Four players were unanimous choices Tuesday for the East squad which will face a picked team from the West Jan. 6 in the World Hockey Association's first All-Star game at Quebec City.

They are Tom Webster of New England, Gerry Cheevers of Cleveland, J. C. Tremblay of Quebec and Ron Ward of New York. Twenty-one players were selected.

The West squad will be announced Thursday.

Jack Kelley of New England will coach the East and Bobby Hull will share coaching duties with Nick Mickoski for the West.

Gary L. Davidson, WHA president, announced the makeup of the East team which will include:

First team: Garry Jarrett, Cleveland, Ward and Webster, forwards; Paul Schunyr, Cleveland, and Tremblay, defense; Cheevers, goalie.

Second team: Wayne Carleton and Ron Climie, both of Ottawa, and Danny Lawson, Philadelphia, forwards; Rick Ley and Jim Dorey, both of New England, defense; Al Smith, New England, goalie.

Third team: Bobby Sheehan, New York, John McKenzie, Philadelphia, Gerry Pinder, Cleveland, forwards; John Hanna, Cleveland, Ken Block, New York, defense; Serge Aubry, Quebec, goalie.

Fourth forward line: Larry Pleau, New England; Michel Parizeau, Quebec, and Norm Ferguson, New York.

World Hockey Cup moves to second round

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — The Czechoslovakia national champion hockey team, fresh from a razor-thin victory over the United States, moved into the second game of the round-robin World Cup championship tonight with a match against the Canadian squad.

Czechoslovakia, represented by its Army team known as Dukla Jihlava, scored on a screened power play goal in the third period to edge the United States team 3-2 Tuesday night to move into the second round of the tournament.

Wishbone giving Longhorns trouble

By DENNE H. FREEMAN Associated Press Sports Writer DALLAS (AP) — Texas defensive coach Mike Campbell says he doesn't know why but Wishbone offenses give the Longhorns more trouble than any other formation.

"It shouldn't be that way because we look at the offense every day," says Campbell, who is in charge of stopping Alabama's high-powered Wishbone offense in the 37th Cotton Bowl News Year's Day.

Campbell says from the films he has seen of the Crimson Tide Wishbone, it's a potent bulldozer with an excellent pass-and-run quarterback in Terry Davis.

"Davis reminds me a lot of Eddie Phillips and James Street who ran our Wishbone to perfection," Campbell says. "Only Davis probably can pass better than either James or Eddie. Alabama can throw the ball, but they really don't run their Wishbone much different than we do."

Of course, the Wishbone as now used in college football, originated at Texas under Coach Darrell Royal and former assistant Emory Bellard, now coach at Texas A&M University.

Alabama Coach Paul Bryant, after extensive talks with Royal, switched to the offense in 1970. The Crimson Tide opened with a victory over Southern California and have only lost twice since—to Nebraska in the Orange Bowl and to Auburn in the last game of this regular season.

Campbell says Davis and receiver, Wayne Wheeler "are a deadly combination if you go to sleep out there."

Texas hasn't gone to sleep very often in compiling a 9-1 season record and its fifth consecutive Southwest Conference title. The Longhorns intercepted 21 passes with Tommy Keel leading all pass thieves on the team with four.

"Keel (a sophomore) has come on strong and he'll have to have a good day if we're to keep Alabama's passing game shut down," Campbell says.

Alabama is fourth-ranked and owns a 10-1 record as it enters its 26th bowl appearance—14th straight since Bryant became coach. Alabama is 12-10-3 in the bowl games.

Texas is making its 20th post-season appearance and is 11-5-2.

The Longhorns are 9-0-1 against Alabama and a Bryant-coached team has never beaten a Royal-tutored outfit. Bryant is 0-2-1 against Royal.

WON 100 AT MSU EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — When Duffy Daugherty bowed out as Michigan State's head coach with a 24-14 victory over Northwestern, it marked his 100th victory in 19 years as the head coach at MSU. The Spartans' big win this year was an upset victory over Ohio State.

North-South battle on gridiron tonight

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The South is depending on the nation's total offense leader to help it extend its series lead in the annual Blue-Gray football game here tonight.

By the same token, the North will use the No. 2 total offense leader in the nation to help it better its position in the series which shows the South leading 12-14.

Kickoff for the televised clash between the college all-stars from the North and South is set for 8 p.m. EST.

The Blues, except for a 6-4 tie in 1969, have been on the short end of the score for the last four years. The South won last year's game 9-0.

Virginia Tech quarterback Don Strock will call the signals for the Grays. He led the nation in passing and total offense, connecting on 228 of 427 passes for 3,243 yards.

Utah State quarterback Tony Adams, who was second in the nation in total offense, pilots the Blue squad. He passed for 2,787 yards and 22 touchdowns.

Blue Coach Vince Gibson of Kansas State and Gray Coach Charlie Coffey of Virginia Tech say their strategy will be to "throw the football."

Among the corps of receivers for the North are Tom Forzani of Utah State, who led the nation with 65 receptions, and the top receiver in the Big Eight, John Goerger of Kansas State.

Mike Burnop and Craig Valentine of VPI, Dave Sullivan of Virginia and Jim Hodge of Arkansas are in the Rebel receiving unit.

How good are the Trojans?

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — How good are the Southern California Trojans, the nation's top-ranked college football team? Their coach, Jim McKay, said Tuesday: "The O.J. Simpson team of 1968 had some good athletes but there were some athletes on that team who would not suit up on this team."

Otherwise, rival Rose Bowl coaches McKay and Woody Hayes of Ohio State reiterated superlatives at the annual Southern California Football Writers Association pre-Rose Bowl luncheon.

Speed of the 11-0 Trojan team was a primary topic.

"It has a lot of speed," said McKay of his team, and for the unpteenth time he judged "This is the greatest team I've had at USC."

The 1968 Simpson-led Trojans lost only once—to Ohio State 27-16 in the Rose Bowl.

Of the Trojans' speed, Hayes said, "No question about it. They are faster than Michigan, faster than we are, faster than anybody."

The Buckeye squad, 9-1 and ranked No. 3 in the nation, is not the best Ohio State team under Hayes. He said his Rose Bowl team of two years ago—a 27-17 loser to Stanford—is more comparable to the 1972 Trojans.

Ohio State this year doesn't have the big name players, such as Rex Kern, John Brockington and Jack Tatum, Hayes noted.

The Trojans are two touchdown favorites.

"We hope to go out there and play well enough to win. If we don't," he joked, "we'll have to go into the lockerroom and think of some excuses."

Bluebonnet Bowl

Louisiana State (9-1-1)

After a sensational start, LSU stumbled near the end of the season, losing 35-21 to Alabama, and suffering through a 3-3 tie with Florida. The redoubtable Bert Jones is the spark of the Tigers' offense. He threw for 14 touchdowns this season, half of them going to receiver Gerald Keigley. LSU's most effective running back is Chris Dantin, who gained 707 yards over the season and averaged 4.3 yards per carry. The defense is good if not great. Linebacker Warren Capone and tackle John Wood are the standouts there.

(Dec. 30; television: 7:30 p.m. EST on the Hughes network.)

Tennessee (9-2)

Defense is the shibboleth at Tennessee. The Vols were consistently third or fourth in the nation in that department this season. They held the opposition to 7.6 points per game. NEA second-team All-American Conrad Graham is the star of that unit. Quarterback Condredge Holloway, with a 61 per cent completion average, was named sophomore of the year in the Southwest Conference. Ricky Townsend is an oddity only on first appearance. He kicks field goals barefoot. Kicks well enough to be an All-American at it, booting good ones—12 in 19 tries. Tennessee lost to Auburn (10-6) and Alabama (17-10).

Prediction: Tennessee 14, LSU 7

Montreal skates to triumph

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Jean-Guy Talbot, who spend a dozen years with Montreal before switching to St. Louis five seasons ago, probably wished, for a few moments Tuesday night, that he could once again be wearing the uniform of the Canadiens.

Instead, he had to wear the disgruntled look of a losing coach—which is exactly what he was as Montreal skated around and over his Blues for a 4-1 victory, their fifth straight triumph.

In the only other NFL game, Don Tannahill broke loose for three goals to lead the Vancouver Canucks past California 4-3 and Detroit tied Pittsburgh 1-1.

Pistons beat first place Milwaukee

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Detroit Pistons and Cleveland Cavaliers aren't going anywhere in the National Basketball Association and they're doing their best to bring the Milwaukee Bucks and Atlanta Hawks down to their level.

With Stu Lantz scoring eight of his 37 points in the closing minutes Tuesday night, the Pistons, cellar-dwellers in the Midwest Division, beat first-place Milwaukee for the second time in a row 112-105, the first time they've managed that feat since Kareem Abdul-Jabbar joined the Bucks in 1969-70.

Meanwhile, the Cavaliers, with one of the worst records in the league, snapped Atlanta's five-game winning streak, beating the Hawks for the second time in three meetings 115-96 and knocking them out of a virtual tie with Baltimore for first place in the Central Division.

Elsewhere, Boston turned back New York 115-106, Baltimore trounced Buffalo 121-104, Chicago whipped Kansas City-Omaha 117-103, Houston shaded Phoenix 113-110, Los Angeles crushed Portland 116-92 and Seattle edged Golden State 97-95.

American Basketball Association scores: Dallas 131, Virginia 126; Kentucky 129, Indiana 120; Utah 119, Memphis 112; Denver 103, San Diego 101.

Cleveland, which had lost its last nine games, outscored the Hawks 65-41 while the Cleveland backcourt duo of Austin Carr and Lenny Wilkens combined for 50 points, 26 for Carr. Lou Hudson led the Hawks with 27.

Detroit's Lantz took over after the Pistons blew an 11 point lead in the final period and trailed 103-102. He made two baskets and four free

Nate Archibald: He tilts against windmills and wins

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—A true story: One day, on the road to success, Nate Archibald literally ran into an obstacle.

This was two years ago, when he was a rookie in the NBA, and was behind the wheel of a Gremlin (a name then befitting the station in life of this little, driving, rather obscure backcourt man).

Archibald stopped for a red light on 174th Street and Riverside Drive in Manhattan. As the light changed and he began to slowly pull away, a man walked out from behind a parked car. Archibald hit him, knocked him down, and, as the man would say later, broke a couple of ribs.

Archibald did not hear from the man until a few months later. It turns out that the man had forgotten the incident until he was browsing through his son's basketball scrapbook, and stopped at a familiar face.

"Hey," said the man, "that's the guy who hit me."

The man decided to sue. Archibald was in New York in early December when his team, the Kansas City-Omaha Kings, played the Knicks. He went to court for trial preliminaries, and met that man again.

"He came over to me," said Archibald, "and stuck out his hand. 'No hard feelings,' he said, 'but can I have your autograph for my son?' 'Wow, can you imagine that! An autograph, after all this!'"

Did you give it to him? Nate was asked.

"Yeah," Nate said.

So Archibald, who now drives a Grand Prix, has found that fame and fortune and leading the NBA in scoring and in assists is not always a boulevard strewn with lilacs and roses. Although it admittedly is a lot sweeter than sitting and mainlining in a Harlem gutter like some of the guys he grew up with.

The 6-foot, 155-pound Archibald is finding that with a 34-point scoring average, some five points higher than that of Kareem Abdul-Jabbar (at 7-3 the tallest player in the league), and with a nearly 12-assists-a-game average, he is being double- and sometimes triple-teamed. "I've got windmills guarding me," he says.

He has emerged in the last two seasons as one of the most prolific, most spectacular and most cuddled players (held and grabbed and tugged, he is again leading the league in being fouled).

What makes this former schoolyard star so good?

• First, Archibald is one of the fastest runners in the league and also one of the fastest dribblers, which makes him a fine driver. Norm Van Lier, who played with Archibald in his first season, said "Tiny" is quick (in fakes) and (on foot)—a rare combination.

• Second, he is an excellent outside shot and is now shooting. In Archibald's first pro season (1970-71) he averaged only about 13 shots a game. Now he is averaging about 25.

"We don't have that many good shooters," said Archibald. "There aren't many guys to pass to, so I pass to me."

• Archibald, who may become the first man in NBA history to lead the league in both assists and scoring in one season (Jerry West and Wilt Chamberlain have led in both departments but in separate seasons), credits coach Bob Cousy with indelible help. "Cousy made me think on the court—know the situation and don't force a situation that doesn't exist—and to look up and see the whole court. A lot of guys just see the hoop. But it helps a guard to watch for a man who has been hanging and fighting to get clear on a cut. If you don't give him the ball, he gets resentful, and rightly so," said Archibald.

• Archibald also has no big or bad mouth and teammates are willing to throw picks and screens for him. "I've always been quiet and shy, ever since I knew myself," said Archibald.

• In summers he runs six and seven miles an evening to build endurance. And thus can play a strong full 48 minutes a game.

• Finally, Archibald says, he has become so good because "I've played a lot of basketball."

A lot of guys have played a lot of basketball, came a skeptical response.

"I've played more," said Archibald.

Environmental protection is a matter of policy at AP&L.

At Arkansas Power & Light, we're concerned about the air, the water, the land and all forms of life in our state. And to provide a guideline for future decisions on the ecological aspects of our operations, we've adopted a formal Policy on the Environment. You see, at AP&L we're involved in improving the quality of life. Providing reliable electric service is one way. Protecting the environment is another.

AP&L's Policy on the Environment.

Section I—General

Within the limits dictated by proven technology, sound economics, and other practical considerations, the Company will make every reasonable effort to plan, design, construct, operate, and maintain the physical facilities necessary to provide electric service to the public, with the objective of minimizing effects on the environment.

All state and federal laws relative to the quality of the environment and the use of natural resources will be considered the minimum guideline for decision.

Section II—Existing Facilities

When existing physical facilities necessary to provide electric service to the public are to be replaced or modified, such changes will be made in a manner that will assure environmental standards are met. Other existing facilities will be operated and maintained in a manner which will assure that full consideration is given to environmental matters to the extent that is practicable.

Those facilities of the Company which may have effect on air, make use of water, or make discharge into bodies of water will be operated in such a manner as to assure compliance with standards established by state and federal governments. Necessary control methods will be installed, including monitoring equipment where necessary, to insure such compliance.

Section III—New Facilities

All new facilities will be designed and constructed, insofar as reasonably feasible, to meet those environmental standards which are expected to be in force at the time the facilities are to become commercially operational. Necessary control methods will be formulated and implemented to assure compliance. The Company will place special emphasis on increased use of underground distribution systems.

As and when it becomes technically feasible and economically practicable to underground transmission systems, Arkansas Power & Light Company will give full consideration to this means of preserving the environment. In general, the aesthetic appearance of all physical facilities will be given appropriate consideration at the planning and the design level, and this consideration will be reflected in the completed installation.

Section IV—Land Use

Of necessity, the use of land for facilities will be dictated by the Company's needs in order to fulfill its obligation of serving electric energy to the public. However, in selection of such land short- and long-term environmental effects stemming from the intended use of such land will be given full consideration. Final decision, however, must be based upon the consideration of all factors, including the state of technology, economic and practical aspects, as well as environmental considerations.

Section V—Research & Development

The Company will continue to participate in research and development projects directed toward the creation of maximum compatibility between the operation of its physical facilities and their environmental effects. These projects will include continued support of undergrounding of distribution, undergrounding of transmission pole structures, substation design, etc.

The role of the electric power industry can and should be that of a major contributor to the ultimate solution of many of the environmental problems confronting this area. The Company will support projects when justified which utilize electricity to effect improvement in environmental conditions, even though not directly related to the Company's operations. When AP&L participates in such research projects, it will keep the public advised of the opportunities and solutions that were developed.

Section VI—Implementation

Responsibility for adherence to environmental standards and for the Company's policy contained herein will reside with the departments now responsible for the planning, design, construction, operation, and maintenance of the Company's physical facilities which have an impact on the environment.

A concept will be maintained at the planning level within the Company whereby design will combine engineering expertise with specific environmental requirements.

The North-South pair were playing extremely weak two-bids. Their high card point range was 5 to 10 and they bid them with any six-card suit. North's two no-trump response was forcing and we see no reason for the bid except inexcusable optimism.

South's three-club rebid showed a hand in the maximum range for this type of weak bid and in spite of this encouragement, North could only go to three spades.

South thought a while before passing. He really held a maximum in his system and the decision to pass must have been based on the knowledge that his partner tended to bid too much. South won the king of diamonds with dummy's ace and led a diamond right back. His 10 forced West's queen and it was up to West to lead to trick three.

You can see that a spade shift is best and West should have seen this also but West was ready to have a life master brainstorm.

He thought a while or at least acted like he was thinking and then came up with the amazing lead of a low heart.

South was surprised to find himself winning the trick with his king, but not too surprised to ruff his other heart: lead dummy's trump ace and continue with a high diamond. He overruffed East's nine-spot, dropped the king and jack with a low trump lead and while he still had to lose two clubs he did make his contract for an undeserved good score.

Brennan: Coming under the gun

By WALTER STOVALL
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Union leader Peter J. Brennan, President Nixon's choice for secretary of labor, has been subjected for years to criticism that the hard-hat unions he oversees have made little real effort to open their ranks to minorities.

The criticism, certain to be aired when the Senate takes up Brennan's nomination, comes at a time when minority membership in New York's construction unions is estimated by union sources at two per cent.

In Brennan's 250,000-member New York City Building and Construction Trades Council—an alliance of 40 craft unions ranging from plumbers to steepjacks in hundreds of locals—two per cent would be about 5,000 blacks and Puerto Ricans.

A 1965 U.S. Department of Labor study said New York construction unions reported 2,916 minority members, about one per cent of the union's 200,000 total membership at the time. New York City is about one-third black and Puerto Rican.

A comparison of the union estimates and federal statistics indicates union membership in the past seven years has risen by 50,000, while minority membership has doubled—though leaving blacks and Puerto Ricans a fraction of the work force.

Part of the problem is that construction unions traditionally, though unofficially, have maintained restricted memberships. Most of the openings were reserved for members' relatives. Moreover, small memberships mean more work for more money in New York's booming construction industry.

Brennan, 54, whose strength as a labor leader rests to a large extent on the fact that his men earn the highest building wages in the nation, denies he ever has supported exclusionary policies. He says his unions are autonomous and he does not "run or control any of the unions. I don't have the power to put people in or keep people out."

Questions about Brennan's minority record have arisen anew with issuance of a federal report expressing disappointment over a minority training program which Brennan helped formulate two years ago.

The program, the so-called "New York City Plan," was designed to provide on-the-job training for 800 blacks and Puerto Ricans annually. It was found to have "serious defects" in a study compiled for the U.S. Civil Rights Commission by its New York branch.

Brennan refuses to give an opinion of the plan or its implementation. A spokesman for Brennan says that "it would be presumptuous of him to get into it, now that he is secretary-of-labor designate." Furthermore, the spokesman added, Brennan no longer has any connection with the program.

If fully implemented and if all the trainees were admitted into the unions, the plan would increase minority membership in the unions by about four-tenths of one per cent a year.

The plan was devised by Brennan and Donald Rodgers, a local union official who is now a labor adviser in the White House. It was approved by the city government and contractor and minority representatives.

The plan ran into problems at the outset, with four unions refusing to take part. Since then, one of them has joined the plan, two have signed separate agreements to train 100 minority workers each a year. Only the Sheet Metal Workers out of the 40-odd in Brennan's council refused to participate.

Reliable figures on the progress of the program are hard to pin down. Brennan's spokesman said he thought 700 trainees had been taken on in two years. The city says 400, and the Civil Rights Commission report says 862. Other sources gave other estimates.

New York Deputy Mayor Edward K. Hamilton, who speaks for City Hall on matters concerning the New York City Plan, says the program has been a "disappointment" and says the time has come to renegotiate it.

Your constructive criticism is the other fellow's nit-picking.

Patti Page, Mike Huckabee are guest speakers at Kiwanis Club

Patti Page and Mike Huckabee, Hope High School students, were the guest speakers at Tuesday's Kiwanis Club meeting. They were introduced by Kiwanian Clifford Franka.

Each speaker, in turn, gave an account of their experiences and views of Girl's State and Boy's State which they attended in the summer, their reports being belated by previous conflicts.

"What can one say about Girl's State that will convey the deep significance of the experience?" said Miss Page. "It's a period of fun, of making new friends, of learning, and of adjustment. Take one thousand girls out of their homes, away from the TV and telephone, and their usual mode of living and place them in a situation like Girl's State, and you'll get something that is different, to say the least. Girl's State is a wonderful, moving, educational experience."

Huckabee, who was elected to the highest office in Boy's State—of governor—in his opening remarks stated that he would be for merging Boys and Girls State. With 1,000 boys in camp and only about five girls working in the cafeteria competition gets "pretty keen."

"To be sure, America is not perfect," he said, "but it's the greatest country in the world." He feels that America has moved from the concepts on which it was founded to a more liberal society. "We must," he said, "get back to those earlier concepts."

"Patriotism like Christianity is not dead among our young people," he said. "They both start from within the individual and develop without. Opportunities are at hand if we are willing to meet the challenge. Perhaps it might be harder for some to take advantage of their opportunities than for others, but our generation must come back to the point of being willing to work for what we get. The great majority is willing to work, if given the opportunity and direction."

Guests at Tuesday's meeting were Loyd Willis, St. Charles, Mo.; David McKenzie, Indianapolis, Ind.; Bill McKenzie, Pensacola, Fla.; Jimmy Wilson and son Randy of Calif.; and Mrs. Caroline Teeling, St. Charles, Ill., mother of Kiwanian Rudy Fick.

EVANGELIST—The First Assembly of God Church will start the New Year with a series of special services with Evangelist and Mrs. Loren Wooten of Springfield, Mo. The Wootens have been conducting spiritual renewal services for the past several years and this last year they have reported some of the most successful revivals in their evangelistic ministry. The services will begin Sunday morning and will continue for at least two weeks and maybe longer. The services will be at 7 o'clock each evening with the exception of Saturday. Rev. and Mrs. Wooten, along with their evangelistic work, have also pastored churches in Missouri, Louisiana and Indiana. He has also held positions of youth leadership, assistant superintendent of the Assemblies of God in Missouri and of recent weeks ask to serve as evangelists field fellowship secretary of the Assemblies of God. The pastor, C.C. Truitt, invites the public to this spiritual renewal revival.

We're going to enjoy a January vacation—the one the boss takes.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Column saves reader's life

Dear Dr. Lamb — I hope this letter reaches you personally, because I want to thank you for saving my life. I had a melanoma on my back and did not realize it, or how serious they are. I knew I had a mole and that my clothing was irritating it. I read an article you wrote on moles—malignant melanomas—in our local paper six months ago and promptly called my doctor. The mole was removed and a biopsy revealed it to be malignant. After an operation, X rays, and examination of my lymph nodes, my doctors told me they felt it was caught in time. I have had two three-month chest X rays since and both were clear. I thank you for what you have done for me personally and appreciate the many fine articles you write.

Dear Reader — Of course, I am always pleased to learn that people like my column, but my greatest satisfaction does come from learning that

Dear Dr. Lamb — Recently I heard two parties discussing a medical problem. One said it was okay to lay a semi-conscious person who was vomiting and bleeding in the throat flat on his back. The other person said an individual in this condition should never be placed flat on his back. Who is right? Is there ever an exception?

Dear Reader — That is a good question and an important one. In general, an unconscious person should never be placed on his back. Even in the operating room when this is done, a tubular instrument is placed in the windpipe at the back of the throat (usually for artificial respiration) which prevents the tongue from falling back and blocking the airway. To prevent airway blockage by the tongue an unconscious person lying down should be on his side or at least positioned in such a way that the head is turned to the side.

Obviously, if the unconscious or semi-conscious individual is vomiting or bleeding, this material can be inhaled into the trachea (windpipe) obstructing respiration, or if small amounts enter the lung, causing a serious lung infection.

It is all right for a person to be on the back if someone is careful to see to it that the airway remains open. A good example of this is a person who has sudden cardiac arrest and needs external cardiac massage as an emergency, lifesaving procedure. While the individual is on his back, the head is turned to the side and if necessary, mouth-to-mouth artificial respiration is also administered. Other than these situations, it is better to have the patient lying on his side.

Truman Briefs
CHICAGO (AP) — The passage of years mellowed the breach between The Chicago Tribune and Harry S. Truman, the newspaper noted in recalling its embarrassing "Dewey Defeats Truman" headline of 1948.

The Tribune reported Tuesday it recently prepared a gift for the former president, a plaque containing a replica of a Tribune front page of Nov. 3, 1948, with the erroneous banner headline announcing that Thomas E. Dewey was elected president.

The erroneous headline appeared in some copies of an early edition that went to press on election night. Although Truman died before the plaque could be presented, the Tribune said it would offer it to the Harry S. Truman Memorial Library in Independence, Mo.

In its news columns Tuesday, The Tribune said its relationship with Truman "mellowed from intensely hostile to friendly ..."

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Harry S. Truman would have been a great football coach, said Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes, winding up a pre-Rose Bowl luncheon with an impromptu eulogy of the former president.

After answering questions regarding his team and next Monday's Rose Bowl game against Southern California, Hayes remained at the Southern California Football Writers Association podium Tuesday and said the former president's death "weighs heavy on my mind."

"When I see a great man, I ask myself what kind of a football coach he would make. Harry Truman would have made a great one."

As for the former president's life, Hayes said that "I'm a student of any winner. Mr. Truman was a winner."

NEW BRITAIN, Conn. (AP) — Former New Britain Mayor John L. Sullivan doesn't think highly of the person who taught former President Harry S. Truman how to play the piano.

Truman stopped in New Britain in 1952 during a New England swing to campaign for Adlai Stevenson, Sullivan remembered Tuesday.

Sullivan said he planned in advance that he and the president would play a piano duet but the Secret Service informed Sullivan that "under no circumstances would they let him (Truman) play the piano," said Sullivan.

But the New Britain Democrat prevailed and the president played. Not the "Missouri Waltz" as everyone expected but the "Black Hawk Waltz."

When Truman asked Sullivan how the performance went, Sullivan responded, "Mr. President, if I ever meet your piano teacher I'll shoot her."

What persuaded the president to tinkle the ivories against the advice of the Secret Service and his daughter Margaret?

"There's a ... Republican out there who has promised me $2,000 for the Democratic Party if you so much as place one finger on the keyboard," Sullivan said he told Truman.

Truman said "John, you just got yourself a $2,000 contribution," according to Sullivan.

Computer is put in use by police

SEASIDE, Calif. (AP) — Following the advice of a computer, two policemen here have accounted for more burglary arrests in the past two months than the entire 54-man force has in any previous year.

"We were damn tired of reacting to burglaries after they happened," said Police Capt. Dale W. Anderson, who heads a burglary patrol which relies upon probability instead of manpower.

Since late October, the $50,000 program has yielded 27 burglary arrests, the recovery of $30,000 worth of stolen property and more than a 25 per cent reduction in burglaries, he said.

Police officials said the program, financed in part by a $30,000 grant from the Council on Criminal Justice, might serve as a model for other cities the size of this Monterey Bay community of 40,000.

Jehovah's Witness convention held

"Life today can be especially meaningful and purposeful," declared H.C. Hoskins in the keynote address at the semi-annual convention of Jehovah's Witnesses in Pine Bluff, this past weekend. Hoskins, a former missionary in Africa, addressed the audience on the subject "Is This Life All There Is?"

He went on to say, "many people are frustrated with life. They find that things most sought for such as wealth, fame, power and beauty are not satisfying." He encouraged the 1,729 in attendance to study the Bible, which is the only thing that gives real meaning to life.

Sunday morning 70 persons were baptized.

The presiding minister of the local congregation, Duane E. Swanson, said that the local delegates benefited greatly from the sessions and feel better equipped to carry on their ministerial activity.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A 24-year-old mother has been charged with two counts of first-degree murder in the strangulation of her two infant daughters the day before Christmas.

Nan Mullan had been held on an open charge of investigation over Christmas, pending the formal charges issued Tuesday. She was arrested Sunday after police said she phoned them to report the deaths.

Police said the two children, one 2 and the other 4 months, were strangled with a diaper.

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Disney World closed its gates for two hours Tuesday when a capacity crowd of some 50,000 post-Christmas visitors jammed into the Magic Kingdom.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The illegal production and sale of liquor during the Prohibition period became a multimillion dollar "business" in the United States and led to years of violent gang warfare. The World Almanac notes that between 1919 and Feb. 1, 1927, there were reported to have been 1,000 gang murders in Chicago.

WORLD OF WORK

Answers to Employment Questions by Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson

Federal Workers Vote for Union Choice

R. G. of New York City asks: Who decides what sort of unit of federal workers is suitable for union representation?

Dear R. G.: The assistant secretary of Labor for Labor-Management Relations decides, based upon the community of interest among employees, effective dealings between the parties and efficiency of agency operations.

L. V. of Denver, Colo., asks: How does a union get to represent federal employees?

Dear L. V.: It petitions the assistant secretary of Labor for Labor-Management Relations for a representation election. If a majority of the employees in an appropriate unit votes for the union, then that union becomes the exclusive representative of all the employees in the unit.

R. S. of Atlanta, writes:

How can I request a courtesy inspection of my plant to make certain I am in compliance with the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970?

Dear R. S.: The Act does not permit a courtesy inspection because it requires a federal compliance safety and health officer to cite all violations of safety and health standards he observes as he goes through an establishment. However, you may arrange for consultation with a compliance officer away from your plant by contacting your nearest Occupational Safety and Health Administration Regional or Area Office.

M. R. of Casper, Wyo., writes: would you tell me how federal compliance officers are trained to conduct inspections under the Occupational Safety and Health Act?

Dear M. R.: The typical compliance officer brings to his assignment many years of experience in job safety or industrial hygiene. All inspectors undergo a four-week training session in compliance procedures plus extra training if they are to work in construction or maritime activities. Industrial hygienists receive other special training as well. All receive periodic refresher training and "up-date" bulletins as the need arises.

D. R. of Charleston, S.C., writes: I've heard that the Occupational Safety and Health Administration has selected five health hazards to check for in work places. What are they and why were they selected?

Dear D. R.: This U.S. Labor Department agency has launched a Target Health Hazards Program aimed at asbestos, cotton dust, silica, lead and carbon monoxide. These are high on the list of 8,000 toxic substances. They were chosen because they present serious and widespread threats to employee health. In addition, the existence of standards provides benchmarks against which to measure compliance.

How Pete lost by winning

Pete McCloskey

'The whole problem of politics is that there's no limit to what you can do if you want to put the time in.'

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

SAN MATEO, Calif.—(NEA)—The hurt and puzzlement are still in Pete McCloskey's face. He sits at his desk in the old frame house which is his home headquarters, going through the ritual of politeness, the incessant telephoning, the obsequious politeness, the desk-side huddles. It's demanded.

He'd chuck it all tomorrow if Cubby McCloskey, of McLean, Va., told him to come back.

Paul N. McCloskey, Jr., representing the 17th Congressional district of northern California, has paid the price of being a politician. On June 7, the day after Pete McCloskey won the Republican primary in his re-election bid for a third straight term in Washington, Cubby, his wife, asked him to leave home.

It was a warm, comfortable home—for Pete. When he was there. There was a tennis court. And a little football field. It was in the country, halfway between the Capitol and Dulles Airport, and through it revolved his four growing children.

The congressman, who could pass for younger than 44 if his wild shock of Kennedy-type hair wasn't turning gray and the character lines weren't etching deep, wants to be back. Hopes to. Almost despairs that he can't.

"I told her," he says, "that if she would even consider trying to reconcile, I'd resign from the Congress tomorrow."

But he won't and he knows it.

"It's like the tiger," he said last summer. "He's satisfied with milk until he tastes blood. There's a heady atmosphere in Washington. You're at the center of power, the decision-making process. All of us love the power."

McCloskey has tasted the blood and it broke up his marriage and the constant pattern of his life.

"The whole problem of politics," he now reflects, "is that there's no limit to what you can do if you want to put the time in. The tendency is to put all your time into it, with corresponding lack of attention to the needs and priorities of your family. That's exactly what I did and I deserve every bit of what she did. I can understand her feelings and I may over my commitment. I don't blame her at all."

Now.

"If I had foreseen this would be the result," he says, "I wouldn't have gone into politics. None of this was worth losing my wife."

In 1971, by his own count, he was away from home 207 days out of 365. He went to Vietnam and Laos on his Easter vacation. He took his summer vacation to write a book.

"My wife could see another 20 years of that," he says, "and who needs it."

"On a day of campaigning, you get up at seven o'clock and go through till midnight. You're in constant communication with strangers. You grow testy and frustrated and less sensitive to the problems of people around you because you're so wrapped up in your own. You become dehumanized."

It started for Pete McCloskey when he went to Washington half a dozen years ago as the exemplar for all good, young Republicans, the Marine war hero who once volunteered for Vietnam, who had upset Shirley Temple Black in a special congressional election.

"Cubby and I," he muses, "had spent 18 years of marriage literally building a lovely home in Portola Valley, in the finest place you could ask to live in the world, living the best possible life. I had a successful law practice."

"Then you ask your wife to uproot. We sell that home, bring the children to Washington, get accepted to a new environment and then the children go away to school."

"A woman turns to some need for her own identity, her own self-respect. Some body said to me, 'Your wife is a very strong, competent person and doesn't relish the role of being subordinated to your activities on all occasions.'

"If I'd realized this a year earlier, our marriage might still be together. I took her for granted."

Since the marriage broke up, Cubby McCloskey took a real estate license in Virginia.

"Last month," notes McCloskey, "she sold three homes and probably earned twice as much money in commissions as I'm earning as a member of Congress. It's the first time in her life she's ever worked and she's been tremendously successful."

The McCloskey children have also dispersed, but in a more natural way. Nancy, 21, and Peter, 19, are in college in California. John, 17, went back to friends in Portola Valley. Kathleen, 13, remains with her mother, but the Congressman took her on an eight-day tour of New England this summer.

"Kathie," he says proudly, "is something else. She gets straight A's and is a self-contained little girl. The only problem is I don't want to interfere. You really miss that seeing her every night."

Above all, there is a sense of emptiness.

"My particular wife," says McCloskey with feeling, "was a very big part of everything I did. I just put a tremendous amount of reliance on her and the home she furnished. She put everything into the marriage and I took everything out in order to wage these political fights."

"So losing her was a tremendous blow. I've come around to the point of view that your family and you as a human being are more important than your political success."

Are legislators 'fir' or 'agin'?

By ROBERT SHAW
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers' recommendations for major uses of the general revenue surplus apparently enjoy broad legislative support, but state legislators are not ready to concede that Bumpers' landslide re-election victory was a mandate for enactment of his program.

"It is my feeling that we will probably witness a very independent-minded legislature, especially in the House," says Rep.-elect Henry Wilkins III of Pine Bluff, one of four new legislators who will give blacks representation in the General Assembly for the first time since 1893.

Members of the legislature were polled by The Associated Press on their views about the session that begins Jan. 8 and there was general agreement among those who responded in support of all or most of the major proposals outlined by Bumpers for spending the record surplus, which is expected to approach $100 million by the end of the fiscal year June 30.

But even while saying that they agreed generally with the governor, many legislators said division of the surplus would be a major issue. Sen. Bill Walmsley of Batesville said the matter could possibly rival a probable fight over highway construction financing as the hottest issue of the session.

Rep. Kenneth R. Camp of Brookland is one who generally agrees with the governor's surplus-use program, but says: "I expect there will be a great deal of disagreement about the scale of priorities and the implementation of the respective programs."

Among Bumpers' major recommendations are $10 million to acquire and preserve wilderness areas, $7.5 million to start a free textbook program in the upper four grades of the public schools, almost $15 million to expand and improve the University of Arkansas Medical Center and $15 million to construct a state office building, which would house a state library and archives in addition to other state offices.

But some legislators expressed reservations about whether an expansion of the Medical Center was the best solution to the problem of training doctors who will practice in rural areas and turning out more family practitioners. There was support for taking a close look at the possibility of establishing a second medical school to train physicians for practice in rural areas.

Rep. Charles "Bubba" Wade of Texarkana said he wanted a projection of the cost of operating two separate schools. But Wade said he was most interested in getting more doctors to remain in Arkansas, especially in the rural areas.

"It's not fair for our taxpayers to be currently financing at a high level a program which graduates too many doctors who leave the state or who specialize and then ask for additional support—unless the Medical School can come up with those programs which will give our people in rural areas more doctors," he said.

Rep. Jesse C. Hayes of Pochontas said the legislature may have to establish a second, "paper" medical school "before the American Medical Association wakes to the fact that they are not producing what is needed for Arkansas."

Both other legislatures hold the firm conviction that Arkansas should have only one medical school and that the doctor shortage problem can be overcome through it.

"You cannot legislate doctors back to rural areas," said Rep.

Charles R. Moore of Luxora. "Our present medical school can persuade them as well as another costly school."

"We do not need a second medical school at this time," said Rep. Joel Y. Ledbetter of Little Rock. "Using hospitals around the state for internships should be a start to keeping our medical students in Arkansas."

Rep.-elect Larry S. Patterson of Hope, who supports expansion of the existing medical facilities, suggested that the legislature might possibly choose to provide incentives to students to go into general family practice in addition to those already written into law.

Rep. Gayle Windsor Jr. of Little Rock said "the profession should come up with some realistic methods and recommendations rather than expecting the legislature to initiate any solutions."

But he said: "I think more money would produce more doctors and this would mean more rural doctors. In other words, training more doctors would be a direct means of getting at the problem."

Some questions were raised about the proposal for acquiring wilderness areas.

"What scenic wilderness? Where? How much? Future use?" asked Rep.-elect Lloyd George of Danville."

There is support for Bumpers' recommendation that the surplus be used for projects that will not commit the state to a continuing level of spending after the fund is gone.

In addition, George suggested establishing a temporary lending agency using part of the surplus to make loans to school for construction "at least until they can arrange financing."

Windsor said he was for providing free textbooks but "I would prefer a more stable financial basis for funding such a program than the hope of surplus funds every biennium."

Wade said he thought Bumpers' program would be acceptable and that he, like the governor, did not want to spend it all just because it is available.

"I don't want our state looking for new taxes in 1973 to continue a level of financing which we created by surplus spending in 1972," Wade said.

Almost all legislators who responded to the AP questionnaire said they did not consider Bumpers' big victory over Republican Len Blaylock in the general election as a mandate for the governor's programs.

"The mandate is probably more for the man than his programs, but there is obviously some overlap between the two," said Rep. Cal Ledbetter.

Windsor said Bumpers had an "ineffectual" opponent in the election and had other things going for him, such as the second term tradition, "which do not necessarily constitute a mandate."

Camper overturns

A Dodge camper overturned on I-30 as a result of an accident early Tuesday afternoon. According to authorities, Melvin Polk, 69, of Battle Creek, Mich., driver of the camper, was traveling east and crossed State Highway 4 at the I-30 overpass when a wrecker driven by Bobby Allen of Allen's DX station, struck the rear of the camper. The camper then skidded across the highway and overturned in the entrance to I-30.

No injuries were reported. Polk was charged with failure to yield right of way.

European money managers are engaged in $$ balancing act

By LAURANCE F. STUNTZ

NEW YORK (AP) — European money managers are engaged this week in a delicate balancing act, trying to raise their interest rates without attracting dollars from the United States.

If they fail, it means higher prices for imported goods in America, another run on the dollar and possible curbs on imported steel and cars. A failure could even stifle America's present economic recovery.

The balancing act is another example of how decisions taken by international financiers in far-off places have an impact on American consumers and workers. Although the United States exports only 4 per cent of its total output, long-continued deficits have weakened the dollar so much that it is sensitive to what foreigners do.

Europe is now suffering from inflation—in Belgium it is 6 per cent a year. To combat it, monetary authorities agreed to raise interest rates. This slows inflation by discouraging people from borrowing to buy the things they want.

Last week Belgium raised its discount rate to 5 per cent and Britain lifted her basic government lending rate to 9 per cent, the highest since 1914. By contrast, the U.S. discount rate is only 4½ per cent although the rate charged by banks to their best customers has just gone to 6 per cent. All this means that investors can get a higher return on their dollars by sending them to Europe for investment.

If Europeans continue to increase their interest rates, more dollars will be attracted into the European lending market. This in turn would mean that the outward flow of U.S. dollars might touch off another run on the dollar. If it appeared that this flow of dollars was continuing, U.S. lenders would raise their interest rates again.

This is where another danger comes in. If U.S. interest rates go up too much, it will hurt the American economic recovery.

It could even raise short-term interest rates on consumer loans, the money borrowed to buy new automobiles or dishwashers.

registering under an assumed name. Weeks said he would seek warrants "for all those involved who may be in violation of an Arkansas state statute and a Little Rock city ordinance." To register at a hotel under a false name is a misdemeanor.

In a prepared statement, Tucker said he was "amazed to read that Mr. Weeks was conducting an investigation of the registration." Tucker said Inspector John C. Terry had asked the prosecutor's office Oct. 21 to "try to keep Miss Poole in town for further questioning."

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Pros.

Atty. Jim Guy Tucker of Little Rock said Tuesday his office had arranged for a figure in a St. Louis jewel robbery investigation to be registered under a false name at a Little Rock hotel with the knowledge and cooperation of the Little Rock Police Department.

Police Chief Gale F. Weeks later disputed the statement.

Tucker was responding to a statement by Weeks earlier in the week Weeks had become "concerned" over information indicating that Tucker and at least one of his deputies might have assisted Marjean Poole in

Survivors of plane crash ate companions

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Despair and anger followed the disclosure that some of the 16 survivors of an Andean air crash fed on their dead companions to stay alive.

Official sources disclosed Tuesday the cannibalism among the Uruguayan men during their more than two month ordeal on an icy mountain ledge.

A dozen of the survivors staying at a local hotel "were very depressed and went to their rooms immediately" when afternoon papers appeared with the stories, a hotel employee said.

The 16 were among 45 persons aboard a Uruguayan air force plane that crashed in the Andes Oct. 13. All of the passengers were either players on a Montevideo rugby team or fans.

The survivors spoke freely with newsmen earlier about everything except their food supply. They said 18 were killed in the crash or died of their injuries within several days, eight more perished in an avalanche Oct. 29 and the last three died in November and early December of injuries or undernourishment.

Most relatives and friends of the survivors refused to discuss the cannibalism but Mrs. Domitila de Paez said the reports "soil the grandest miracle of history." She is the mother of Carlos Paez, 20, one of the survivors.

Mrs. Sara Alvarez de Francois, mother of survivor Roberto Francois, said the reports "are lies, it is criminal that they are spread."

Cesar Charlone, the Uruguayan charge d'affaires in Santiago, said the survivors had made a "solemn pact" to say nothing until they had all returned to Uruguay. There, he said, they planned to make a joint statement.

One survivor reportedly compared the cannibalism to "a heart transplant," the survivors made to save one person's life; in this case portions of the bodies were used to continue a number of lives.

Another survivor described the decision in terms of "the sacred sacrament of communion."

"Had we died, it would have been suicide, which is condemned by our faith," the young man reportedly said.

One of the two survivors who finally hiked down the mountain and found help last week, Fernando Parrado, 23, told newsmen earlier that in the first few days after the crash, "we maintained ourselves with chocolates and jellies" they had purchased in Mendoza, Argentina, en route to Chile. Asked for more details, he replied: "We are not allowed to talk about food. You must read the Chilean air force report."
